DETECTIVE

I stopped being moved by that kind of crap years ago. All the fake tears and boohoos. You can save it for someone else who might care. I know when someone is lying and I'm not interested in buying into someone else's lie, so either we skip ahead to the part where you start to confess to what's really going on or we sit here in silence. Let me remind you, no one knows where you are or even that you're missing. We can sit here all week if you want.