

PATIENT

That wasn't as bad as I thought it would be. I was sitting there talking with the doctor and kept waiting for sudden pain, but that gas kicked in just about as soon as her and the nurses got to work. Weird thing is I was out, but not completely offline. Kind of felt like when you're dreaming and the surrounding noises start to creep in before you wake up. (BEAT) I just can't wait to get back out on that field and shake this off. I want to play again.
