

DETECTIVE

Ok wise guy I'll tell you what we know. We know that on the 23rd a bomb went off in the middle of the city and three of your guys were found at ground zero with all types of incriminating evidence. We also know that none of those bozos could put together something like this on their own, not without some major instructions from someone who knows what they're doing. Someone with experience. From there it really wasn't that hard to narrow down who they might have been in touch with and best part of it all was that they led us right to you, didn't even have to run a search. So you want to start talking or what?
