

PATIENT

This is all hitting me just now, sorry I might need a minute before we get started. I'm just really nervous. In case you can't already tell. I've never had any kind of surgery before, let alone one this serious. I mean no one expects to ever need rotationplasty that just not something you hear about you know? Even after all the reading and videos you guys sent over I'm still a little uneasy. What are the odds this procedure goes wrong? You know what, don't tell me. (deep breath) I think I'm ready.